WHO ARE WE

Port of Call Consulting is an General Underwater Ship Maintenance specialist based in South Africa, servicing ports around the world. Our focus is to provide clients with underwater expertise using reputable preferred partner diving companies throughout the world.

The owner of Port Of Call Consulting, Nicola Willmott, gives the highest priority to high quality services. Through her years of experience in the commercial diving world, we offer knowledgeable advice on the best port/s to conduct underwater services, based on your vessels trading schedule.

Port of Call Consulting will maintain the highest standard of workmanship during all diving operations carried out, from the initial point of contact through to the completion of the project, with feedback and advice given every step of the way. We strive to apply strict safety guidelines and to follow industry standards when vetting contractors, which allows for safe and responsible workmanship.

Since our establishment in 2009, we've built relationships with our preferred diving partners thereby being able to often offer more competitive pricing options.
